

How to link your Capitec Global One Card to your PayPal Account and Why

If you are like me and you like shopping online then you know how time consuming it is filling in your card details every time you purchase things, especially from overseas.

Paypal makes it easy to shop internationally by storing your card details and just asking you for your PayPal credentials before making your purchase. You will also have the ability to get a refund within 45 days if you are unhappy with your purchase even if the store you purchased from is uncooperative, however you should always try to resolve the problem with the store first.

How to link your Global One Card to your PayPal account:

What you need:

- Capitec Global One Card with mastercard capabilities
 - Don't forget to activate your mastercard securecode at a branch near you~~tutorial coming soon~~
- About R20 in your account for verification purposes
 - Don't worry, the money will be deposited back into your PayPal account
- Email address
- Patience (you'll need to wait for about 3 business days)
- Internet banking

If you already have a PayPal account you can skip these steps and go directly to the bit about how to add your card (step 9), otherwise continue reading.

1. Type www.paypal.com/za in your browser

2. Click the register button in the top right hand corner

3. Select individual account

13. Once you have the code, follow step 9 again

1. Enter your 4 digit code

2. and click continue

14. The money that was charged to your account will now be visible in your PayPal balance.

You are now ready to begin worry free shopping! Enjoy!

As you can see from the info-graphic below. PayPal is widely used overseas and is accepted by almost all online stores giving you limitless buying potential. Unfortunately South Africa is not on the map because PayPal does not support the Rand as a currency for payment yet.

All transactions are converted to US dollar when making purchases, however if you want PayPal to add the Rand as a currency for payment please sign this petition and in the near future, we might feature on info-graphics like these too!
